

Source line

1. Is it necessary to differentiate between intra-agency and correspondents' dispatches? Yes
 2. If so, what is the necessity? To pin down responsibility. Intra-agency to agency is responsible. CD to agency is not responsible.
 3. How can we be sure ~~that~~ whether or not there is an established press agency office in a city? Regularity and size of copy filed, info gathered from service message, listings in various publications.
 4. Assuming that all "Correspondent's Dispatches" will be slugged FOUO:
 - a. How do we treat intra-agency material when sent to the home office as point-to-point messages?
 - b. Do we treat material sent to home offices via a press broadcast transmission (Singapore AFP to AFP Paris) in the same way?
- x (He thinks the source line book should spell out the restrictions on publication of this type of material.)

Prod Problem

He gives these ~~x~~ as guides for differentiating between the two types, if it is decided to do so:

Correspondents dispatches are signed;

" " usually go to the home office (?)
